To all Shareholders

Notice of Shareholder General Meeting

Approval of New Investing Policy Change of Name to Agronomics Limited

1 Introduction and Background

- 1.1 I am writing to invite you to a Shareholders' general meeting ("General Meeting") of the Company to be held at the Claremont Hotel, Loch Promenade, Douglas, Isle of Man IM1 2LX, on Tuesday, 16 April 2019 at 11:00 a.m. The notice of the General Meeting is set out at Appendix I of this Document.
- 1.2 The Company has agreed, subject to Shareholders' approval, to amend the Company's current investment policy to focus on opportunities in the wider Life Sciences' sector, specifically in the emerging area of Clean Food technology ("New Investing Policy"). Further details of the revised investing policy are set out in paragraph 2 and the Appendix below.
- 1.3 The Board believes that it has sufficient experience and expertise in the sectors and regions in which the Company's New Investing Policy will be focused to source attractive investment opportunities with the potential to achieve shareholder value. Specifically, the Company will utilise the Investment Committee to source investment opportunities in accordance with the New Investing Policy. The purpose of this Document is to provide you with the background to and to explain why the Directors consider the adoption of the New Investing Policy and a change of name of PEBI to be in the best interests of the Company and Shareholders as a whole and why they recommend that Shareholders should vote in favour of the Resolutions to be proposed at the General Meeting.

2 New Investment Policy

- 2.1 Resolution 1 to be proposed as an ordinary resolution (requiring 50 per cent. approval of Shareholders voting at the General Meeting) proposes the adoption of a new investing policy by the Company. The proposed New Investing Policy is set out below with those parts being underlined showing the changes made from the existing investing policy of the Company.

The Company seeks Shareholder's approval to widen the existing investing policy of investing in the Biopharma sector which, whilst including the areas currently covered, will have the effect of allowing for investments over the wider Life Sciences' sector, specifically in the emerging area of Clean Food technology.

The New Investing Policy is to be as follows:

"The Company will invest in opportunities within the Life Sciences sector, concentrating on, but not being limited to, environmentally friendly alternatives to the traditional production of meat and plant-based nutrition sources (“Clean Food”). The Company will focus on investments that provide scalable and commercially viable opportunities.

The Company will invest in equity and equity related products in both quoted companies, which offer the benefits of liquidity, and in unquoted companies which offer the attraction of additional capital gains upon completion of a successful IPO. The Company may also invest in shares of collective investment schemes with exposure to the Life Science sector and in long-term equity anticipation securities the underlying securities of which will be based on Life Science sector securities and/or indices relating to the Life Science sector. The Fund may invest in Life Science Sector debt. Investments in Life Science sector debt shall not exceed 15 per cent. of the Net Asset Value of the Company.

The Company will be ungeared. The Company will be a passive investor.

The Company aims to deliver capital growth by realising capital gains when it considers that the valuation of individual investments looks to be excessive or, as is often the case in this sector, as a result of trade sales.

Assets and investments will be held by the Company directly or through the individual share custodians of the brokers used by the Company to acquire the shares.

Any material variation to the Investing Policy will require the approval of Shareholders at a general meeting of the Company in accordance with the AIM Rules for Companies.’

As an Investing Company, the Company’s investing policy is subject to annual renewal by Shareholders to the extent it has not been fully implemented.

- 2.2 The Directors believe that their broad, collective experience, together with their extensive network of contacts, will assist them in identifying, evaluating and funding suitable investment opportunities. External advisers and investment professionals will be engaged as necessary to assist with sourcing and due diligence of prospective opportunities. The Directors will also consider appointing additional directors with relevant experience if the need arises.
- 2.3 The Company will form an Investment Committee, chaired by Jim Mellon, to propose suitable investments to the Board in line with the New Investing Policy and review existing investments. The membership of the Investment Committee will also include at least one Independent Non-Executive Director. It will operate on an ad hoc basis, meeting no less than four times a year.
- 2.4 The Directors intend to review the Company’s investment policy on an annual basis and, subject to their review and in the absence of unforeseen circumstances; the Directors intend to adhere to the New Investing Policy. Changes to the Company’s investing policy may be prompted, inter alia, by changes in government policies or economic conditions which alter or introduce additional investment opportunities. It is the intention of the Directors to invest the Company’s cash resources, from time to time and as far as practicable, in accordance with the New Investing Policy. However, due to market and other investment considerations, it may take some time before the cash resources of the Company at any given time are fully invested.
- 2.5 It is intended that the funds initially available to the Company will be used to meet general working capital requirements, to undertake due diligence on potential target acquisitions and to make investments in accordance with the investment guidelines described above.

3 Change of Name

- 3.1 Subject to Shareholders’ approval by way of special resolution (requiring 75 per cent. approval of Shareholders voting at the General Meeting), it is proposed that the name of the Company be changed to Agronomics Limited. Resolution 2 is proposed for the purposes of obtaining Shareholders’ approval for the proposed name change.

- 3.2 If the special resolution to approve the change of name of the Company is passed at the General Meeting, the Company's website address will be changed following the General Meeting to www.agronomics.im.

4 Certificates

Shareholders holding Ordinary Shares in certificated form will not be issued with new share certificates as a result of the Company's name change and existing share certificates will remain valid.

5 General Meeting

The Notice convening the General Meeting at which the Resolutions will be proposed is set out at Appendix I of this document. A summary of the Resolutions is set out below.

As an Ordinary Resolution

Resolution 1 – Approval of New Investing Policy

This Resolution proposes that the Company adopt the New Investing Policy (in substitution of the previous investing policy), on the terms set out at paragraph 2 of Part I of this Document and that the Directors be authorised to take all such steps as they may consider necessary or desirable to implement the New Investing Policy.

As a Special Resolution

Resolution 2 – Approval of Change of Name

This Resolution requests Shareholders approve the change of the Company's name to Agronomics Limited.

6 Action to be taken

Shareholders will find a Form of Proxy enclosed with this Document for use at the General Meeting. The Form of Proxy should be completed and signed in accordance with the instructions thereon and returned to Link Asset Services, Clinch's House, Lord Street, Douglas, Isle of Man, IM1 1JD by not later than 3:00 p.m. on Friday, 12 April 2019. The completion and return of a Form of Proxy will not preclude Shareholders from attending the General Meeting and voting in person should they so wish.

7 Recommendation

The Directors recommend that Shareholders vote in favour of the Resolutions proposed at the General Meeting and they believe that the New Investing Policy has the potential to realise further profit for the Company and its Shareholders.

I, James Mellon, the Non-Executive Chairman of the Company, intend to vote in favour of the Resolutions in respect of my own holding of Ordinary Shares which amounts, in aggregate, to 6,729,273 Ordinary Shares representing 29 per cent. of the Ordinary Shares.

Yours faithfully,

James Mellon
Non-Executive Chairman

Appendix

The Investment Case

Demand for protein, be it animal or plant, is growing at a rate that is generally considered to be unsustainable for the natural environment. It is estimated that animal husbandry accounts for 18% of total greenhouse gas emissions globally – more than all forms of transport combined. Beyond this, animal husbandry utilises vast quantities of other scarce resources such as land (directly and via cultivation of crops for animal feed), water and energy, is a major user of antibiotics, while the slaughter of animals (fish included) on an industrial scale is a growing source of ethical concern for many.

Population growth, combined with a rising middle class in emerging markets, are the primary reasons driving this increased demand for animal protein. US consumption of meat in 2018 was close to its highest in decades, with total production up 2.4% from 2017. Meat production in the US in 2019 is expected to reach 105,570 billion lbs, up 3% on 2018. This pattern of consumption is similar in other developed nations and there are no credible forecasts suggesting that demand for animal protein is going to either stop or decrease.

To date, the agriculture and aquaculture industries have been able to satisfy this demand through increased production capacity and productivity gains. Notwithstanding, there is an increasing concern that the projected consumption will surpass the industry's production capabilities, leading to irreversible environmental damage as producers struggle to keep up, and which, in turn, could jeopardise future productive capacity.

Until now, these issues have not had any feasible solutions, but recent technological advances mean we are on the cusp of being able to significantly reshape the supply chain through replication, simulation or substitution of animal protein: -

- Replication – Animal tissue derived from slaughtered animals / carcasses versus Clean Meat / Cultured Meat, generated via cellular agriculture and cellular aquaculture by the production of muscle, fat and connective tissue cells in bioreactors (cell cultures);
- Simulation – Protein alternatives utilising specialised recipes to closely simulate the taste, texture and flavour of major protein and other animal (eggs and dairy) products; and
- Substitution – Increasing use of alternative proteins/biomass such as insects.

Clean Meat

Clean Meat or cultured meat is produced by in vitro cultivation (in bioreactors) rather than derived from slaughtered animals. The techniques used for the culturing of meat in this way are derived from those used in regenerative medicine.

In 2013, Mark Post of Maastricht University demonstrated proof of concept by serving the first lab-grown burger patty. This was funded by Sergey Brin, co-Founder of Google and cost US$ 325,000 - "it wasn't bad, and it wasn't great," said one food critic. This prototype was pure lean muscle, which did not have any fat content, blood or connective tissue etc. Since then, numerous companies have unveiled prototype products from other species such as the cultured fish cakes from Finless Foods Inc. which incorporated their cultured carp fish cells.

Clean Meat benefits: -

- Greenhouse gas reduction: gasses generated by animal husbandry could be reduced by between 78% – 96%;
- Land usage: land use could be reduced by approximately 99%. For every indoor acre farmed, 10 – 20 acres of farmland could be returned to its original ecological state;
- Water saving: an estimated 82% - 96% reduction in water usage, depending on type of clean meat produced;

- Energy saving: leading to a reduction of between 7% - 45% in energy usage;
- Antibiotics usage: reduced to zero because the bioreactors are a sterile environment;
- Ethics issues: no slaughtering of animals. In the case of fish, no risk of inadvertent bycatch and poor labour practices reduced;
- Food safety: imported seafood suffers relatively high rejection rates due to health concerns, particularly seafood, which suffers from a bioaccumulation of toxins;
- Risk of food-derived illness significantly reduced. In the US alone, 47.8 million people per annum are reported with food-related illnesses, resulting in 127,000 hospitalisations and 3,000 deaths;

| Food category | Illness | Death |
|----------------------|----------------|--------------|
| Fresh produce | 46% | 23% |
| Meat and poultry | 22% | 29% |
| Dairy and eggs | 20% | 15% |
| Fish and shellfish | 6.1% | 6.4% |

- Overfishing reduced: minimizing the depletion of fish stocks, illegal fishing and habitat damage.

Challenges

The key challenge for Clean Meat producers is production cost, hence affordability. The first burger cost USD $325,000. A number of companies, however, are already reporting significantly lower production costs. For example, Memphis Meats are now at USD $2,400 per pound. Some companies project that they will have a commercial product that is cost competitive by the end of 2019. The broader industry, however, is more conservative than this.

Other related challenges include: -

- Growth media for cells: at present, companies cannot grow cells at commercially viable speeds in a media without animal sourced serum;
- Cost of media: large volumes of expensive media are required. This means recycling techniques will be an important cost reduction driver;
- Structure: cells are currently grown in a slurry / soup with no structure. It is possible that muscle, skin, blood, fat cells, etc. could be grown together and mixed in an appropriate ratio for taste and texture. Growing steaks (or the equivalent) will likely slow down growth rates, as cells typically need to be millimetres from nutrients which are normally diffused via vasculature;
- Cell lines: the use of cell lines which are immortal, meaning a capability of doubling indefinitely, would be preferable. Finless Foods believe that they have selectively bred immortal cell lines from juvenile blue fin tuna. The ability to transform adult stem cells into muscle, fat and connective tissue is critical; and
- Regulation: for example, in the US, a framework only has been announced. Notwithstanding and for reasons which are not clear, especially considering that the same technology is used for cultivation of cells across species, generated seafood will be regulated solely by the FDA, whereas generated meat and poultry will be regulated jointly by the USDA and FDA.
